Day ticket

Please park in the Day car park.

If you want to camp overnight, you can put up a tent nearby, just inside the camping area. Your colour-coded wristband is valid till 11.30am the next day. If you want to stay here longer than that, you will need to buy a new wristband.

Weekend camping

You're welcome to choose your camping spot and park along the edge of the same field. But if you'll want to use your vehicle before Monday morning, you will need to unload it, then take it back up to the Day car park.

A longer stay?

If you want come here earlier than Friday 7th or stay on after Monday 10th, that's fine; £10 per night per tent/van, payable on the spot. To book, email caroline@thelabyrinth.org.uk.

Food and drink on site - to buy (really good) food onsite, for breakfast, lunch, dinner, see www.bluesandroots.co.uk (scroll down).

You're welcome to bring your own as well. If you want to bring a barbecue set that's fine as long as it's contained, and on legs.

Local food shop - nearest is a basic campsite shop a mile away along our (fairly level) narrow lane, open 8.30-11 and 5-6. For a greater range, a (licensed) village shop at Nomansland, 1.5 miles for a superb range of food and drink, Tredinnick Farm Shop near Widegates, 2.5 miles, usually open till 6pm.

Disabled?

Welcome! The site is reasonably level, and we'll have a disabled toilet.

We do love to be beside the seaside!

We're near the sea - but getting down there is a steep 20-minute walk ending with a rope slide. Don't let your kids think this is a beach weekend.

This is a No Glass festival

We don't want glass splinters to slash people's feet now and in the years to come, so:

- In the festival site: no glass at all (except spectacles). You can buy one of our (very reasonably priced) cups with your drink, and reuse it for years if you like.
- In the campsite: no drinking glasses. Glass bottles are okay - just! - but please take them away with you.

Children and young adults

Under-18s are welcome with parents/guardians.

Under-12s must be supervised by their parents/guardians at all times, even when doing children's workshops and activities.

Dogs are welcome so long as their owners:

- a) keep each dog on a lead held by an adult,
- b) pick up dog dirt and dispose of it safely, and
- c) ensure their dog doesn't annoy anyone.

Last year there was some difficulty as a few dogs ran loose and we couldn't identify their owners. So this year each dog will get a collar tag bearing the owner's name and mobile number, and each owner will sign an agreement on entry.

Toilets

There will be long-drop toilets, pissoires and Andyloos. Small children? Please bring your own child seat.

Showers, washing facilities

There are some mains water standpipes. This year, maybe a shower or two, as provided by the small gods of the Cornish countryside. That's it!

Rubbish!

We'll have a recycling scheme. - it'll help stop the landfill site filling up and a new one being found. Maybe just upwind of your home.
